OFFICE LOCAL INSPIRS OF STEAMBOATS, Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4, 1865.

William D. Gallagher, Surveyor of Customs Sir--Herewith we present a report of a case of collision by the steamers Liberty No. 2 and the stern-wheel steamer Miami which took place recently, while on the 2d of September, 1865, near Metropolis, Illinois, on the Ohio river, and by which the Miami was damaged to a considerable extent.

It seems that the Miami was bound down, and had occasion to land at the wharf-boat at Metropolis; that she had done so, and after discharging her cargo, she backed out from the wharf-boat, stern up stream, and had started on her way down, with her head pointed towards the Kentucky shore; that when she had thus proceeded but a short distance down, and had nearly reached the mouth of the Ohio, she approached near the middle of the river, where she was signalled by an ascending boat by two sounds of the steam-whistle, as an indication that such boat intended to keep to the left of her; the signal was promptly answered by the Miami like manner, and, as her pilot alleged, was steered accordingly.

The ascending boat was the Liberty No. 2, and she it was, as was her duty to have done, made the signal; and, as the witnesses who testified for her allege, she was steadily keeping to the right, however, and did, after having made her signals, materially change her course and bear up towards them, the Miami, and from this cause, and this alone, do you attribute the collision?

Be it known to all concerned, however, that as they are, as may be, certain it is that the collision did occur as admitted by both parties, but a short distance below Metropolis, not over a mile and a half below, and near the middle of the river, and where the river is quite wide, with considerable room on either side, which recedes in obedience to the laws of which we know nothing; it crosses continents and oceans as freely as the winds of heaven, and it would be as reasonable to attempt to control the movements of the east wind, as to attempt to control the movements of this ocean of cholera, than to attempt to control the second cause of cholera, and without which the first would be comparatively powerless for evil, is, to a very great extent, within our control, and here is where our duty lies.

The cholera--The Disease Not Contagious--Its Dependence on Atmospheric Conditions--Its Uselessness of Quarantine.

In a report made by Dr. Edwin M. Snow, of Providence, Rhode Island, to the Board of Aldermen, of that city, the Doctor says: "So far as the city of Providence is concerned, if quarantine regulations were of any value, they would be useless here, while we have communications a dozen times daily with New York and other cities; but there is no principle more certain, logically, than that of all intelligent observers of the disease, that quarantine regulations are absurd and utterly useless to prevent the introduction and spread of Asiatic cholera."

The cholera can not prevail as an epidemic without the presence of certain indispensable conditions of the atmosphere; but this atmospheric condition little is known; but it is known that its presence or absence is not affected or regulated in the slightest possible degree by quarantine measures. Vessels may have the cholera on board, and may land the sick on our shores, but the cholera will be useless here, until that mysterious atmospheric condition is present.

But that atmospheric cause may come and be present, and the disease may spread epidemically, without any connection with the arrival of vessels from ports where the disease is prevalent.

It is not a single vessel should arrive in our ports during the next five years it would not make a single day's difference in the presence or absence of the cholera as an epidemic.

The doctrine stated so palpably by the document from the United States Legation at Constantinople, that cholera is contagious, is equally opposed to the opinions of physicians and others who have seen the disease, and is calculated to work most serious injury, if believed, in any community in which the disease prevails, because it was actually contagious, in the ordinary acceptance of the term, a panic would exist, and it would be difficult to obtain nurses, or medical attendance for the same. But no intelligent medical observer of the disease in this country, at the present day, believes that cholera is contagious.

I have, much reluctantly, given up the opinion that the disease is contagious, and am calculating upon the rights of the people that this--Chicago Tribune.

FREE SPEECH IN FRANKFORT.

Intelligence comes by the last steamer that Prussia and Austria have notified the free city of Frankfort-on-the-Main that the "coarse attacks in that city upon the two principal German powers cannot be tolerated," and that the Senate of Frankfort have sent back a spirited reply, in which they decline their purpose of making themselves independent of their town. This is another complication growing out of the Schleswig-Holstein question. The liberal deputies of the German legislative bodies constituting what is called Abgeordneten-Vorwerk, or Deputies' League, have recently met in Frankfort to protest against the action of the duchies of Schleswig and Holstein before Prussia and Austria, which was consummated at the Gastein convention. It is supposed that these liberal deputies favor the claims of the Duke of Augustenburg to a district of Schleswig and Holstein. At present they are in a minority in the division of Prussia and Austria in the division of spoils lately effected at Gastein. They met at Frankfort to put their protest upon record, and it is not unlikely that they characterized the Gastein business as flat burglary as ever was committed--as indeed it was.

News of the Day.

The Wheeling Intelligencer says political conspiracies are on foot to compass a revolution of Virginia and West Virginia.

It is stated that twenty-six regiments of colored troops are en route to New York, from the South, to be mustered out.

The agent of the American Union reports destruction among the people in Georgia and North Carolina.

The majority of General Barlow, Republican candidate for Secretary of State in New York, is 29,000, over Slocum, his competitor.

The safe of Captain Remington, Quartermaster at Chattanooga, was robbed, a few nights ago, of $20,000. Two persons suspected of the robbery have been arrested.

General Briscoe, tried by military commission for attempting to defraud the Government, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment, but on consideration of his services during the war, the sentence was remitted and he released.

Signal to the Post says Chief Justice Chase objects to the trial of Davis at Richmond, and urges a postponement of the trial after the meeting of Congress. The President wants an immediate trial.

The official vote of Colorado at the election, September 5, is recited as follows: For the Union, 30,000; against it, 28,700; showing a majority of only 15 in favor of State Government. On the motion to strike the word "white" from the new constitution, the ayes were 476, and the noes, 412.

The National Intelligencer says that President Johnson, on the 1st of October, presented a petition to him from Baltimore, asking for the pardon of Jeff Davis, stated that "complete arrangements had been made for the early trial of Davis, according to the laws of the land."

At such points in the South where colonies of freedmen exist, and where the Freedmen's Bureau has not as yet extended its aid there, the negroes of the freed people shown by the official returns have received thirty per cent. Where the operations of the Bureau have taken in some of these localities, the number has been speedily reduced.

Information has been received by the Toronto Leader, of the safety-valve in Glasgow, of Capt. Bennett C. Bell. Even so far, however, it would not free from public suspicion, for on his arrival at London, he was for some reason or other suspected of being a Fenian leader. He was taken into custody and detained under a strong guard for several hours, when his true character became known he was honorably discharged. He is now residing with his wife in Canada.

The war between the three allied South American powers, Brazil, Uruguay and the Argentine Confederation, and Paraguay, threatens to be of long duration. Paraguay is determined, and it is said can man all her defenses and send 100,000 men into the field besides. The Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs says how different Brazil is in climate: "As the winter is now past," says the Buenos Ayres Standard, of September 10, "and the fine weather has set in, we look for active operations on the part of the allies."

The editor of the Houston (Texas) Telegraph, after an extensive tour of the States, reports that the drought had nearly ruined the corn crop. He estimates that only half a crop will be made this season. Some of the potato crops and cotton looked well; old citizens represent that they have never before seen such a fine and heavy yield as this season. Complaints were heard everywhere of the want of hands to pick it up, and the cotton plantations, which ever grew was dropping out of the bolls and was wasting for want of hands to save it. Good judges estimate the loss throughout the State by this cause at 40,000 bales.

THE ANDERSONVILLE DEAD.

The obituary record of the Andersonville prison, now being published by States, forms a fitting conclusion to one of the saddest chapters of the war. It is to be hoped that the day for the use of retributive epithets in speaking of such deeds as these lists call up is past forever. But while we would have the system and the men, who sold themselves to work such an infamous work, in the hands of him who has said He will "execute judgment and justice on the earth," we cannot forget our friends and our neighbors' friends whose names make up these long martyr lists. And one thing more we will not forget nor neglect to do, God being our helper, and that is to strive to make the recurrence of such deeds in this country not only a legal, but a moral, impossibility.

TOUGHING--THE DEMOCRATIC LIGHT-HOUSE GONE OUT.

It was not long ago that the Mississippian represented the swift and certain destruction that threatened the Southern people from the hands of the Abolition or Radical party, as coming out of the North like a fearful tornado, laden with thunderbolts and death. But still there was hope for

There stands the Democratic light-house, her vestal lamps all trimmed and burning, as brilliant as a constellation in the heavens. Her sleepless sentinels are upon the towers, with telescopes to the eye, and her life-boats are rowing with might and main to our rescue.

That light-house went out last Tuesday. Unfortunately for the Mississippian and its friends the virgin all proved to be of the foolish order, and when the bridegroom (election) drew nigh they were without oil.

Blair's Rhetoric Rebuked.

A very significant incident occurred at the Democratic meeting last Saturday evening, during the speech of that dissatisfied demagogue, Montgomery Blair. Whilst that blighted statesman was in the midst of his violent tirade against Secretary Seward, he was interrupted by a storm of hisses, which were directed at one of his speeches emanating from the Union portion of the audience, many Democrats being equally marked in their expressions of dissatisfaction. The orator bowed his head to the audience, and just as his remarks did not recover his cool nature, it very soon brought his remarks to an abrupt termination, having discovered unmistakable signs of weariness and disgust.

This emphatic rebuke should warn Mr. Blair, that the place held in the hearts of the people is not able to bear his rhetoric. His name is well deserved to the Republic, that the puny assaults of such treacherous foes will only strengthen his position, —Buffalo Commercial.

The Tyler (Texas) Reporter has the following: Some of the most respectable citizens of Vanzandt county have been arrested by the civil authorities of that county, Boliver Hubbard, Rev. John McMillen, John J. McMillen, Mr. Egbert W. A. Eames are among the most prominent. An attempt was made to arrest Mr. William White, but he made his escape, being fired upon by the Sheriff's posse. These persons are charged with the hanging of Reid Holcomb McKeynes, charged with horse-stealing. The trial began in August, 1864, and was done in Smith county. The trial, before a Justice of the Peace, is, we suppose, progressing at this time. Several lawyers from this place have been employed, and are in attendance. Some twenty-five citizens of Vanzandt were engaged in the trial, and probably will be made if the parties now on trial are committed. The civil officers are endeavoring to arrest all the parties in that county, who took any part in the vigilance committee, &c., during the war.

LET THE PEOPLE SPEAK AND POLITICIANS BE SILENT.

We have always given a large proportion of those concerned in the late rebellion some little credit for being sincere in their attempts to overthrow the Government, or having to some degree an intelligent understanding of some things which they believed to be strong reasons for their course. And it is not likely that any of their leaders, even in their present indecent and ominous solicitude about getting reconstructed and rebaptized into the Union, in less time than it takes the commonest demagogue under an extraordinary pressure to turn a complete somerset, will have the hardihood to deny that this view is the proper one. We have, as a consequence, repeatedly taken occasion to express our decided opposition to the haste with which these people are seeking to rush back into Congress and into the Union. This rushing headlong Unionward, even without the spiteful and rebellious outbursts heard all along the line, would be most alarming suspicious.

Rev. Morgan L. Dix in a sermon preached in New York on Sunday, stated there was perfect unity between the Northern and Southern branches of the Episcopal Church at the recent convention held in Philadelphia.

La Rue has many commendations from the press elsewhere, and will present an entertaining bill.

THE WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS.—comprising the press of Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky will assemble in this city on the 22d inst. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to the proprietors of the entire Southern press.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.—The only case tried in this court yesterday was that of J. H. Harris vs. Calvert, Civil, Watts & Myers, for slander. The case occupied two days. Whatson & Buir for defendants; Whitaker and Stirman for plaintiffs. The jury returned a verdict of $3000 damages for plaintiff.

And so, from the first, it was prudent to suspect the manifestations which so immediately and generally appeared, as mainly due to a relapse of the old chronic complaint, which four years of drugging by the most skillful and vigorous practitioners of the North had apparently expelled from the Southern system—a relapse brought on to some extent, we may believe, by an attack of the politicians' and demagogues' fever. It was the men thus doubly diseased who would have State Conventions called, get elected to them and initiate the policy of the new States. They were the men who would be elected to Congress and to all the State offices. As a result, the mass of the people in the South would not be represented in those Conventions; they would be Conventions, not of the people, but of men returned to their wallow in the mire of treason and political corruption. And do not the proceedings of these Conventions thus far furnish shameful illustration in abundance, of all that might have been predicted in this view of the matter?

Thomas Sawyer, of Robertson county, Tennessee, was robbed on Friday night, the 3d instant, and himself and wife murdered, and his house burned. Nothing remained of Sawyers and his wife but their hearts and skulls. Sawyers was an industrious, honest and quiet man. He was thought to have a large amount of gold and silver about his house.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Board of Health at its meeting on Tuesday evening last, the physicians of the city are hereby respectfully invited to attend the meeting of the Board at the Council Chamber next Tuesday evening at 7½ o'clock, and participate in the discussion of the question as to the contagiousness of cholera.

J. A. DOUGHERTY, Secretary.

SHOOTING AFFAIR.—A young man from South America, a missionary, discovered a safe and snugly hidden in the wall of his room.

He was a man of great energy and determination, and he resolved to get at the secret of the safe.

He was successful, and he succeeded in getting the key of the safe. He then proceeded to open the safe, and found a sum of money.
